Sirotinjski dom The Hospice

U većini gradova postoji dom za siromašnu decu i siročad koji drži opština.

U jednom takvom domu rodio se Oliver Twist.

Novorođenče je lebdelo između života i smrti pošto mu je dugo trebalo da prodiše, a kad je zaplakalo, bleđa malaksala mlada devojka oglasi se iz postelje:

„Dajte mi da vidim dete, pa da umrem!“

Doktor joj je stavio bebu u naručje; ona je poljubi, pa umre. Doktor dade bebu sestri, pa uze šešir spremajući se da ode i reče:

„Bila je prelepa. Otkud je došla?“

„Našli su je na ulici cipela poderanih od dugog hodanja, ali niko ne zna otkud je došla niti kuda se bila uputila.“

In most towns there is a hospice for poor children or orphans, which depends on the parish. In one of these, Oliver Twist was born.

The new-born baby hovered between life and death, as he took a long time to start to breathe, but when he gave his first cry, a pale, weak young girl spoke from her bed:

“Let me see him before I die!”

The doctor placed the baby in her arms; she kissed it and then died. The doctor gave the child to the nurse and picked up his hat preparatory to leaving, saying:

“She was beautiful. Where did she come from?”

“They found her in the street, with her shoes in shreds from walking so much, but no one knows from where she came nor where she was going.”

Oliver je plakao iz sveg glasa, a da je znao kakva ga sudbina čeka, još bi jače plakao. Još dvadeset ili trideset siročića bedno je živelo u domu koji je vodila gospođa Men, koja je prisvajala veći deo novca što joj ga je opština davala za hranu i odeću svakog deteta, pa su ta deca gladovala i smrzavala se i bila prljava i bolesna dok ne umru.

Oliver was crying loudly, although if he had known the fate that awaited him he would perhaps have cried even more. Another twenty or thirty orphans had their miserable existence in that place, run by Mrs. Mann, who appropriated most of the money that the Parish Council gave for food and clothing for each child, so that these children were hungry and cold, dirty and sickened until they died.

Oliver Twist je uspeo da preživi uprkos tim poteškoćama. Svoj deveti rođendan proveo je zatvoren u podrumu za ugalj sa još dva dečaka jer su se požalili da su gladni.

Tog istog dana po Olivera je došao gospodin Bambl, koga je poslalo Opštinsko veće. Taj je čovek nadenuo Oliveru Twistu ime, kao i svojoj ostaloj deci koja su dospevala u sirotinjski dom, a sad je dobio zadatak da ga ponovo odvede Oliver Twist managed to live in spite of these difficulties. He spent the very day that he turned nine shut up in the coal shed with two other boys, because they had said they were hungry.

On that day too, Mr. Bumble, sent by the Parish Council, came for Oliver. That was the man who had given Oliver Twist his name, as he did with all the orphans who came to the hospice, and now his mission was to take him away again
